Support for homeschool families within a Biblical worldview

Our hands-on enrichment day is offered on Thursdays from 9am-3:05pm at Crossover Church. Our energetic certified teachers provide an active and academic environment and seek to integrate a Biblical worldview into the class day. On that class day, students attend classes in history, science, writing, art, music, PE, and Spanish. Homeschool parents remain the primary teacher(s) providing grades and stewarding academic progress for all core subjects.

Our academic day is offered on Thursdays from 8am-3pm and provides strong accountability. Students rotate through their classes each hour, like that of a traditional high school day. Our Math students will also attend on Tuesday mornings, time dependent on their Math class schedule, to further support their learning. Our certified teachers instruct on Thursdays and then send home lesson plans and assignments for the remainder of the week. Students complete their work and turn it in the following Thursday. Grades are reported quarterly and recorded on a NWCS transcript, which is important for a high school student who wishes to attend college. Our teachers integrate a Biblical worldview in their subjects, and our curriculum is Christian-based. We seek to prepare students to pursue God's plan and vision for their lives.

Our secondary homeschool parents continue to play an essential role supervising, motivating and challenging their students throughout the week.

Graduating students earn a NWCS Homeschool Extension Diploma by completing their senior year in our program and will attend our Homeschool graduation ceremony. Our other graduation option allows eligible Students in our program the option to graduate from NWCS if they attend NWCS full-time as a senior. Graduation plans need to be expressed to our administrative team so that we can help explore the options and ability of transfer to the traditional school at the beginning of the students Junior year (the year prior to transfer).

Sports and extracurricular activities are an important part of a student's life. Students who are enrolled in the NWCS Homeschool Program can participate in most NWCS activities including sports, extracurricular music, theater productions, school retreats, foreign language mission trips, Driver's Ed and chapel.

Homeschool students are welcome to take a NWCS class at the High School campus for an additional fee and based on availability and schedule allowance.
